

FINFARE PRIVACY POLICY

At Finfare, we take your privacy very seriously and encourage you to read this privacy policy carefully as it contains important information on who we are and our information practices, meaning what, how and why we collect, use, disclose, sell, share, store, and retain your personal information. It also explains your rights in relation to your personal information and how to contact us or supervisory authorities in the event you have a complaint or request. The Privacy Policy applies to Finfare, Inc. and Finfare, Ltd and any of their subsidiaries (collectively “Finfare”).

In providing its products and services, Finfare will collect information from its customers as well as visitors to its websites, users of its apps and by other means. In addition, we may obtain and or share information from, or to, our affiliates and unaffiliated third parties.

The collection and use of personal information is subject to various state, federal and international regulations. This policy sets out our obligations, and your rights, under governing regulations.

How Long Your Personal Information Will Be Kept:

We will keep your personal information while you have an account with us or while we are providing products AND/OR services to you. Thereafter, we will keep your personal information for as long as is necessary:

- To respond to any questions, complaints or claims made by you or on your behalf
- To show that we treated you fairly
- To keep records required by law

We will not retain your personal information for longer than necessary for the purposes set out in this policy. Different retention periods apply for different types of personal information as well as the business purpose the information was collected. When it is no longer necessary to retain your personal information, we will delete or anonymize it.

Keeping Your Personal Information Secure:

We have appropriate security measures in place to prevent personal information from being accidentally lost or used, or accessed in an unauthorized way. We limit access to your personal information to those who have a genuine business need to access it. Those processing your information will do so only in an authorized manner and are subject to a duty of confidentiality. We continually test our systems and hold SOC2 Type II ISO 27001 attestations, which means we follow top industry standards for information security. We also comply with the Data Privacy Framework. And have procedures in place to deal with any suspected data security breach. We will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach where we are legally required to do so.

California Consumers:

Finfare is subject to the California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 (CCPA), as amended by the California Privacy Rights Act of 2020 (CPRA). The CCPA gives consumers residing or consuming products and services in the state of California certain privacy rights to include:

- The right to know about the personal information a business collects and how the business uses, shares or sells the information;
- The right (with certain exceptions) to request the business to delete the personal information;
- The right to opt-out of the sale or sharing of their personal information; and
- The right to be free from discrimination when exercising their rights under the CCPA.

Additional information about how Finfare complies with the CCPA and what consumers can do to enforce their rights under the CCPA are further explained in this policy.

CAN-SPAM Act (U.S. Consumers)

The CAN-SPAM Act was passed into law in 2003 and governs the way U.S. businesses can communicate with consumers electronically. Electronic communications include emails and computer initiated text/SMS messages. CAN-SPAM correspondence is typically classified into two categories:

- Commercial/Marketing Communications - Are communications sent by a business to existing or potential consumers for the purpose of promoting a product or service.
- Transactional/Relationship Communications - Are communications sent to consumers regarding matters pertaining to a product or service an existing consumer is receiving and the communication's primary purpose is to facilitate, complete, or confirm a transaction, or otherwise inform the consumer about the product or services requested.

In some circumstances a message may contain both commercial and transactional elements. Under such cases, the message will be classified in accordance with its primary purpose. The primary purpose will be viewed from the perspective of the recipient as to whether the recipient is able to ascertain from the header, subject and placing of the content in the message if the purpose is of a commercial or transactional nature.

When communicating electronically, Finfare will adhere to the CAN-SPAM Act accordingly:

- All electronic communications regardless of classification will contain our physical address.
- The subject line of all email correspondence will relate to the primary purpose of the correspondence

- Any headers used will be accurate and correspond to the primary purpose of the correspondence.
- Correspondence with only a commercial/marketing purpose will be noted as an advertisement
- If an email list is used for commercial purposes, recipients will be offered the ability to opt out of future correspondence via an “unsubscribe”, “Opt-out”, “Manage Preferences” or similar link. For more information on opting out see How to Opt-Out.

Consumers opting out of transactional correspondence may no longer receive crucial information about the product/service. Opting out of transactional information may result in us not being able to provide our products and or service, or result in us terminating our agreement with you.

Existing consumers should review Finfare’s “Terms and Conditions” before opting out.

United Kingdom Consumers:

Information collected from consumers in the United Kingdom may be used by Finfare U.K as well as its United States affiliate. Accordingly, Finfare will be deemed to be a “Controller” of Personal Data and subject to the U.K’s General Data Protection Regulation (“GDPR”)

The GDPR requires that organizations that use personal data/information adheres to is data protection principles to ensure that the information collected is:

- used fairly, lawfully and transparently
- used for specified, explicit purposes
- used in a way that is adequate, relevant and limited to only what is necessary
- accurate and, where necessary, kept up to date
- kept for no longer than is necessary
- handled in a way that ensures appropriate security, including protection against unlawful or unauthorized processing, access, loss, destruction or damage

The GDPR gives U.K. consumers the right to know what information about you is collected and stored to include the right to:

- be informed about how your data is being used
- access personal data
- have incorrect data updated
- have data erased
- stop or restrict the processing of your data
- data portability (allowing you to get and reuse your data for different services)
- object to how your data is processed in certain circumstances
- to know when an organization is using your personal data for automated decision-making processes (without human involvement) profiling, for example to predict your behavior or interests

As Finfare may share data collected in the U.K. with its U.S. affiliate, Finfare is subject to the EU-US Data Privacy Framework (“DPF”). The DPF was developed to facilitate transatlantic commerce by providing U.S. organization the ability to transfer data to the U.S. from the European economic area which by extension, includes the United Kingdom. Finfare has self-certified its compliance with the DPF and is listed in the Data Privacy Framework List which can be accessed here <https://www.dataprivacyframework.gov/list>.

How to Exercise Your Rights:

If you would like to exercise any of your rights as described in this Privacy Policy, you may write, call or email. See “How to Contact Us.”

For California Consumers

Under California Civil Code Section 1798.83 (known as the “Shine the Light” law), our customers who are residents of California and who provide personal information in obtaining products or services for personal, family, or household use are entitled to request and obtain from us once a calendar year information about the customer information we shared, if any, with other businesses for their own direct marketing use. If applicable, this information would include the categories of customer information and the names and addresses of those businesses with which we shared customer information for the immediately prior calendar year (e.g., requests made in 2021 will receive information regarding 2020 sharing activities).

When submitting a request for information, please be sure to reference “Request for California Privacy Information.” Please be aware that not all information sharing is covered by the “Shine the Light” requirements and only information on covered sharing will be included in our response.

- Please note that you may only make a CCPA/CPRA-related data access or data portability disclosure request twice within a 12-month period.
- If you choose to contact us directly by [website/email/phone/in writing], you will need to provide us with:
 - Enough information to identify you [(e.g., your full name, address and customer or matter reference number)]
 - Proof of your identity and address (e.g., a copy of your driving license or passport and a recent utility or credit card bill) –and–
 - A description of what right you want to exercise and the information to which your request relates

- We are not obligated to make a data access or data portability disclosure if we cannot verify that the person making the request is the person about whom we collected information or is someone authorized to act on such person's behalf.
- Any personal information we collect from you to verify your identity in connection with your request will be used solely for the purposes of verification.

For U.K. Consumers

Under the GDPR you have the right to find out what information Finfare has collected about you. Under certain circumstances, Finfare may be allowed to withhold providing information. For example, if the information is relevant to the investigation or prevention of a crime or other legal, administrative proceedings.

Finfare will respond within a month of a written request. Under certain circumstances the request may take longer. We will within a month of your initial request, provide a response acknowledging your request for information, provide a reason for the delay, and will provide an approximation as to when Finfare anticipates being able to satisfy the request. Finfare will strive to respond to all such requests in three months or less.

If you think your data has been misused, unsecured, or you are not satisfied with our response, you can file a complaint with the Information Commissioner's office. Information about how to file a complaint can be found at <https://ico.org.uk/make-a-complaint>.
